

PRIVACY POLICY

Adverse Events Reporting & Product Complaints

INTRODUCTION AND SCOPE

We are in the process of changing our name from BeiGene to BeOne Medicines.

BeOne is committed to respecting and protecting the privacy of your personal information. We usually do not collect personal information of patients who use our products. However, sometimes we need it to meet our reporting obligations and to monitor the safety and quality of our products. Personal information is information related to you that can potentially be linked back to you.

The data controllers of your personal information (i.e., the entity determining how and why your personal information is used) under this Privacy Policy are:

- BeOne Medicines Ltd. (formerly known as BeiGene, Ltd.), for overseeing global safety and product quality monitoring and reporting,
- The BeOne entity or business partner assisting your specific country or region, and
- Other BeOne entities or business partners obligated to submit these reports to the regulatory authorities in different countries or regions.

If you have questions or complaints and want to reach the data controller or its data protection officer, please see the “Exercising your rights” section below.

This Adverse Events Privacy Policy is for those individuals who provide personal information to or whose personal data is provided to BeOne Medicines Ltd. (or formerly to BeiGene, Ltd.) and/or its subsidiary companies (“BeOne”, “we”, “us”, “our”) in the course of a product complaint or an adverse event report*.

*- If you are a participant in a BeOne sponsored clinical trial or other research and have questions about how your personal data is handled or your rights in relation to that research, please see the copy of the Patient Information Sheet And Informed Consent Form that you received.

* An “event reporter” is the individual that reported the adverse event or product complaint to BeOne and the “event subject” is the individual that suffered the adverse event or project complaint. They may be the same person.

For more information about BeOne personal data processing for other purposes, please refer to our Privacy Policy.

INFORMATION ABOUT CHILDREN

We collect your personal information because we are legally required to and based on our legitimate interests to make our products safe and high-quality. These obligations are independent of your age.

Our websites are not meant for individuals under the age of 16 years old (“children”). We do not knowingly collect personal information directly from children through our websites, so if you are a child, please do not use our websites or provide any information to us through our websites or otherwise, unless we have first obtained a parent or guardian’s consent, where applicable.

CHANGES TO THIS PRIVACY POLICY

We aim to regularly update this Privacy Policy to reflect our practices. Therefore, we recommend periodically reviewing this Privacy Policy. In case of material changes, we may take steps to notify you before they become effective.

Effective date of last update: 10 November 2023

If you are a health care professional who is reporting an adverse event or product complaint, we may also gather information about your professional qualifications.

The potential recipients are described in the SHARING YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION section of this Policy.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION

We usually get your personal information directly from you, e.g., when you contact us, fill out a form, buy our products, provide services to us, register an account or ask for marketing materials and information.

Sometimes, we may obtain personal information about you from other sources, such as where you have instructed a third party to send information to us, or where we have an arrangement with our research partners, collaborators and service providers. We may also gather information from publicly accessible sources such as government records, websites, social media, and other digital platforms.

If you use our websites, we may collect information from your computer or other device through our use of cookies and other data collection technologies. For more information, please see our Cookies Policy.

WHY WE PROCESS YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

We use your personal information to handle, monitor, and if necessary, report your adverse event report or product complaint in line with our legitimate interests and/or legal obligations, and to protect your vital interests.

We also use it to make our future clinical trials and medical products safer and comply with our legal and regulatory obligations.

If you are part of a BeOne access program, we use your data to keep a good record of your medical history for the safety of your future treatments with our products in line with our legitimate interests and/or legal and regulatory obligations.

If at any point you exercise privacy rights, we will use your data in order to address that request, in line with our legal obligations.

We process this information to follow the law and our contracts, and it helps us monitor and/or report adverse events with the quality of our products, as well as our legitimate interest to monitor, take into account and address any complaint regarding our drugs or therapies.

Profiling and/or Automated Decision-Making

"Profiling" means analysing someone's interests, habits, behaviours and other characteristics to predict or make decisions about them. "Automated decision-making" is when a computer program, automated system or algorithm makes that prediction or decision. However, no profiling, prediction or decision is made through fully automated means without human review.

HOW LONG WE RETAIN YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

We keep your personal information for as long as it is necessary for the purposes outlined above, unless the law states we have to keep it for longer.

In particular:

- in the case of an adverse event report, we will keep your personal information relating to your report for at least 25 years.
- in the case of a complaint regarding one of our products or therapies, we will keep your personal information relating to your report for at least 25 years.

In addition to this, BeOne may keep your personal information for longer during:

- the statute of limitations, if needed for evidence purposes;
- the applicable legal retention periods, in particular regarding regulatory matters, or any other mandatory retention period (such as legal hold or investigation).

WHERE WE PROCESS YOUR INFORMATION AND HOW WE PROTECT IT

BeOne operates in many countries around the world and your personal information may be accessible to or shared within the BeOne group and with third parties in different countries as explained in the SHARING YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION section of this Privacy Policy. The laws in certain countries may not provide the same level of protection as the laws in your country or region. When that is the case and as required by applicable laws, we take steps to make sure your information stays safe e.g., entering into contracts with recipients of your information or implementing additional data safeguards.

Whilst we do our best to protect your information, we cannot guarantee its absolute security. Be vigilant in deciding what information you share with us when you send information online.

SHARING YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

We may share your personal information within the BeOne group and with the third parties described below. What we share, why we share it and the safeguards we implement depend on who these third parties are and where they are located. We do not, however, sell the personal information that we collect.

Recipients	Purposes
Companies of the BeOne group (BeOne Medicines Ltd. and/or its subsidiary companies) and its employees	We may share your personal information within the BeOne Group for our global administrative, operational, and/or technical purposes as part of our worldwide and/or global business and medical activities.
BeOne service providers (e.g., payment vendors, contract research organizations, central labs, logistics providers, etc.)	We work with service providers to help us manage our business globally, handle operations and technical aspects (e.g., clinical trials or other research that BeOne or our partners or collaborators sponsor).

BeOne business partners and collaborators (e.g., external scientists, healthcare providers, pharmacies and pharmaceutical partners, distribution agents, etc.)	We work with business partners and collaborators to help us manage our business globally, handle operations and technical aspects in the context of BeOne’s global business and medical activities.
BeOne technology and security providers (e.g., software hosting providers, IT service providers, marketing service providers, etc.)	We work with technology and security providers to help us manage our technology and security operations, and the other administrative, operational, technical aspects of our global business and medical activities.
Government Agencies, authorities and other third parties (e.g., government bodies, law enforcement bodies, courts, tax authorities, FDA and other organizations that may request or receive personal information from BeOne for legal or regulatory reasons)	We may receive requests for your personal data from government authorities, courts and other third parties. We only share your personal data if we have a legal or regulatory duty to do so, or if there is an express and justified request or a suspected breach in the law or regulations.
Advisors (such as outside auditors, attorneys, and similar parties)	We work with advisors to assist us with the administrative, operational, and/or technical aspects of our global business and medical activities. Sometimes, we might share personal data with the advisors if it is needed for the services they provide, e.g., management disputes and other legal matters.
Other third parties	If there is a major change in how BeOne is structured, e.g., a merger, transfer, sale of assets of BeOne or bankruptcy, your personal data might be transferred to others as part of the deal subject to your consent, if applicable.

YOUR CHOICES AND RIGHTS

You have the choice not to give us your personal information; however, that might mean you cannot maintain your relationship or interactions with us or use certain services, e.g., patient support services.

Under certain laws such as the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), California Consumer Privacy Act of 2018 (CCPA), California Privacy Rights Act of 2020 (CPRA) or China’s Cybersecurity Law (including its implementing regulations and national standards), you may have the following rights with respect to your personal information, depending on the law applicable to your location:

- Right of access. You can ask us for clear, transparent, and understandable information on how we handle your personal information, including information on where and who we share it with, and request copies of it.
- Right to rectification. You can ask us to rectify information you think is obsolete or inaccurate and or request that it be completed if incomplete.
- Right to deletion. You can also request we delete your personal information in certain, limited circumstances.
- Right to withdraw your consent. If we process your personal information based on your consent, you have the right to withdraw your consent, and it will not affect the lawfulness of what we did before.
- Right to data portability. You may have the right to ask that we transfer the information provided to us from one organization to another or give it to you.

Depending on where you live and where the BeOne office handling your personal information is located, you may have additional rights related to your personal information. For further information, please see the relevant state-specific section.

Exercising your rights.

If you want to exercise your rights, you can email us at privacy@beonemed.com.

We will respond to your requests within the time period prescribed by applicable laws. Sometimes, we might need to confirm your identity to make sure it is really you asking and to keep your information safe. We will let you know (i) when your request is completed, (ii) if we deny your request (because, for example, an exemption applies), or (iii) if there is a fee associated with processing your request.

You can choose someone to act on your behalf, but we will also need to check their identity and make sure they have permission to act on your behalf. If we cannot verify them, we might not be able to fulfil the request.

Complaints:

If you believe that BeOne has mishandled your personal information or has breached your rights, you may have the right to contact your local data protection authority to file a complaint. But you can also let us know by sending an email to privacy@beonemed.com. We take your concerns seriously.

We will not discriminate against you for exercising any data subject right you have under the law.

OUR COOKIE POLICY

Cookies, pixel tags, and other trackers (hereinafter “Cookies”) are small files that websites and applications use to store or retrieve information on your browser or your device (computer, tablet, mobile, etc.) when visiting our online services. They help websites remember your preferences and improve your browsing experience.

When you visit our websites for the first time (or after deleting Cookies), we will ask for your permission to use cookies. You may choose to accept all Cookies, select specific types of Cookies, or reject all Cookies (other than necessary Cookies). Cookies do not identify you personally; they identify the device you are using. They help us understand your browsing activities in order to recognize the device later on in order to improve the browsing experience, save your preferences and make your online experience better.

If you want to learn more about cookies and see which ones are on your device, you can visit websites e.g., www.aboutcookies.org or www.allaboutcookies.org

The exact cookies we use varies depending on the website or application you are viewing/using. We may use the following types of cookies:

- Strictly Necessary Cookies: These cookies make sure our websites work properly. They help with security, make browsing easier and display webpages correctly. You may disable these in your browser settings, but it might affect some website functions. You will still be able to navigate the websites, though.
- Performance Cookies: These cookies help us understand how visitors use our websites to improve them. They collect information about things like the number of visitors, where they came from and which pages they visited.
- Social Media Cookies: These cookies allow you to interact with social plugins on our websites and share content on social networks; and
- Targeting (Advertising) Cookies: These cookies help us show you specific advertisements, measure how effective the ads are and tailor content to your interests and browsing behaviour. Such Cookies may track you over time and across websites (such as if you visit our websites multiple times or visit multiple BeOne websites).

In addition to choosing your own Cookies, most web browsers let you control Cookies through the browser settings. You can usually delete existing cookies and even set your browser to reject all cookies by default. Check your browser's home page for instructions. If you reject all Cookies, you may still use our websites but some features might not work properly.

While most Cookies do not log your Internet Protocol (IP) address (a number that identifies your computer by your Internet Service Provider), certain Cookies use this information to do a general geolocation check to ensure, for example, that you are directed to the version of the website that applies to your location. Additionally, our systems need your IP address in order to route information (such as the images on the website) back to you. We may also use IP addresses to communicate with or block visitors who fail to comply with our Terms of Use.

For targeted (advertising) cookies, we respond to “Do Not Track” signals from your browser t. You can learn more about “Do Not Track” signals, here: <https://allaboutdnt.com/>.

CONTACTING US

You may contact us at any time if you have questions or concerns about this Privacy Policy or our practices. Please send an email to privacy@beonemed.com.

We will endeavor to respond to your request as soon as reasonably possible in compliance with applicable laws.

To protect your privacy and security, we take reasonable steps to verify your identity before granting access or making corrections. Note that despite any requested removal of or change to your information there may be residual information that will remain within our databases and other records.

We strive to accommodate all individuals regardless of disabilities. If you need to receive the information contained in this document in a different format, please contact us at privacy@beonemed.com.
